NOTICE OF RULING

Re: (Document No. 4)
Defendants' Motion to Sever Plaintiffs and Claims

Ruling: Granted. The plaintiffs' respective claims are each unique to them as individuals, involving different times, places, defendants, and events. The clerk will assign a separate case number to two defendants (one each). This judge will preside over the severed cases. As the incidents and circumstances giving rise to the cases are different there appears to be no reason to consolidate the cases for discovery purposes. But, of course, counsel can agree to use discovery taken in one case in the others to the extent it might apply and resources might be conserved, and, it might otherwise be useable under applicable procedural and evidentiary rules.
